proofpoint

Proofpoint Email Security

Don't be left exposed to email threats. Make the secure choice.

As Intel Security exits the email security market, businesses large and small find themselves in need of a state–of–the–art alternative. Proofpoint delivers an immediate and seamless transition to better email security.

Ready to Upgrade to Proofpoint?

McAfee Email Security customers affected by the end–of–life of their email security solution can take advantage of special promotional pricing offers to upgrade to Proofpoint today! Regardless of what McAfee Email Security email security product you use, or when your subscription expires, you can take advantage of the best pricing to transition to Proofpoint and enhance your email security capabilities.

Why Proofpoint?

Proofpoint has been a leader in the Gartner Magic Quadrant for Secure Email Gateway for 7 consecutive years and is trusted by over half of the Fortune 100 to protect their organizations. Proofpoint has a proven capability to not only block malicious email, but also effectively stop advanced attacks. Proofpoint solutions are proven to scale from small businesses up to the largest, most security conscious organizations in the world.

Industry leading email security

With over 90% of targeted threats starting as an email, protecting the leading threat vector has never been more important. Malware, spam and phishing messages are becoming more targeted and therefore harder to detect using traditional methods. Thwarting those attacks requires technology that can evolve at the pace of the malware in order to keep organizations secure. Rapidly evolving attack techniques utilize both URLs and malicious attachments, and organizations that want to remain secure need coverage across all potential threats. This has become a baseline requirement for a modern email security solution.

Proofpoint solutions provide:

» Protection from advanced and targeted threats Malware writers have evolved from sending masses of malicious messages to focusing on highly targeted campaigns that may often only impact a handful of companies or individuals. Even widespread attacks, like the banking Trojans Dridex and Dyre, are now advanced enough to evade detection by most email gateways and antivirus solutions. Proofpoint offers effective protection from targeted and advanced attacks with predictive analysis of suspicious URLs and dynamic sandboxing of both URLs and attachments.

» Unsurpassed visibility and intelligence
Proofpoint provides granular visibility, not only into email flow, but into how your organization and your people are being targeted. This forensic level of detail is combined with context from attacker and campaign data from across the threat landscape including malicious email, social media posts, mobile apps and files. This enables our customers to understand the details of the potential impact of a threat outbreak.

» Market leading support
Proofpoint customer support is consistently ranked highly; with customer satisfaction rates at around 95%, and a hyperfocus on our customers. Dedicated Technical Account Managers are available for customers that need specialized assistance with their Proofpoint solution. This technical expertise allows our customer base to feel secure that, if they should ever need assistance, Proofpoint experts are always there to help, 24 hours a day, 365 days a year, with a deep understanding of all our product offerings.

» Solutions to fit your business
While Proofpoint can scale to support the largest and most security conscious organizations in the world, our technology also supports smaller enterprises. All businesses, regardless of size, are impacted by similar threats and need the same level of security; however, Proofpoint understands the different requirements around ease of use that smaller businesses have.

McAfee Email Security customers, take advantage of special upgrade pricing when you switch to Proofpoint today! Regardless of what McAfee Email Security email security product you currently use, or when it expires, you can get the best pricing to transition to Proofpoint and enhance your email security capabilities.

www.vinitech.com

info@vinitechinc.com